III. COURSE OBJECTIVES

The law and public policy shape how business managers must think about their firms’ interactions with the environment. The primary goal of this course is to learn to think critically about:

(1) the relationship between business and the natural environment,
(2) the existing legal and policy framework of environmental protection and its effects on what business managers are charged to do, and
(3) the potential to effect change in that legal and policy environment.

The first part of the course will introduce you to concepts of sustainability, and will provide a grounding in the foundational concepts of environmental law. As we address different topics in environmental law and policy, we will examine a series of case studies in which law, policy and business intersect. Examples include how the law of municipal and hazardous waste management informs business practices about e-waste; how informational regulation affects business strategy; and how the dominance of state rather than federal rules governing hydraulic fracturing affects both business decisions and the economic and environmental implications of that practice. We will also examine the emerging concepts of private environmental governance, in which private contracting, third-party certification, and insurance can impose environmental obligations and create incentives in the absence of government action. We will then focus on different approaches of incorporating sustainability into business practices, including through lifecycle analysis and environmental management systems. The final part of the course will consist of student group presentations on current topics in environmental management, law and policy.

Students are not expected to have any previous experience with environmental law or policy.

IV. TEXT AND READINGS

The assigned texts for this course are:

- Coursepack (available from Wharton Reprographics through Study.net).

V. ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING

Students will be required to participate in class, prepare two individual papers and a final group project. There is no final exam in this course.

The final grade for the course will be determined as follows:

- Class participation: 20% (including in-class exercise(s))
- Individual Paper #1: 20%
- Individual Paper #2: 25%
- Final Group Project: 30%

Class Participation: Students are expected to be punctual, attend each class, prepare for classes conscientiously, and contribute to the class discussion. This means providing thoughtful commentary, engaging in analysis, and/or posing relevant questions. It also means being prepared to discuss the readings, including legal cases and other materials. There will be at least one in-class exercise.

General Guidelines for Written Assignments. I have intentionally given you plenty of time to complete each assignment, so all written assignments must be handed in on time. If a paper is late for any unexcused reason, it is penalized one grade level for each 24-hour period or portion thereof it is late (i.e., A would become A-; an A- would become B+ etc.). Excused reasons would include death in the family, serious illness or family emergency, with advance notification if possible.
Individual Paper #1: Due Monday, February 10, 2014, at 10:30 am. Individual Paper #1 will be on an assigned topic. The paper must be no more than 1,500 words. I have set the deadline for 24 hours prior to class so that I can review your papers before class, and we can discuss your responses in class on February 11th. If you miss the Monday deadline, but still turn your paper in before the start of class, the standard 24-hour penalty policy will apply. However, failure to submit Individual Paper #1 by the start of class on February 11th, when we will discuss student responses to the assignment, will result in no credit on that assignment.

Individual Paper #2: Due Thursday, March 20, 2014, at or before the start of class. Individual Paper #2 will be on a topic of your choice. The paper must be no more than 2,000 words. Your paper should discuss a relevant topic in environmental policy, law or management related to material assigned in the course. Topics must be approved in advance.

Final Group Project: Each student must participate in a group project. Students should begin to consider a topic that they would like to investigate relatively early in the semester. The topic must be approved by the Professor in advance. Past projects have addressed a wide variety of topics such as: Chinese Renewable Energy Policy, Extending the Green Revolution to Africa, Endocrine Disruptors, Solar Technology and Sustainable Ski Resorts, among others. At the end of the semester, each group will present its research to the rest of the class. Depending upon class size, students may join together in groups of two or three, and share responsibility and the grade for the presentation. Grades for the group projects will be based on the quality of the final presentation itself, as well as any supplementary written or other submissions provided indicating sources and research.

Citations, Collaboration and Plagiarism. As with any paper, you must use a consistent citation method for sources. Any source you quote or use must be either footnoted, with source and page references, or noted parenthetically, for example (Sax 1980 at p. 7) with the full citation provided in a bibliography (e.g., Joseph L. Sax, Mountains without Handrails: Reflections on the National Parks (University of Michigan Press 1980)). Please make reference to all sources used. No statement that relies on a source should fail to reference the source.

Papers must represent only the student’s own creative work and effort. Any plagiarism or cheating will be dealt with according to University policy. Students may use computer-assisted spelling or grammar programs and may discuss general ideas of paper topics with others. But no writing coaches, relatives, or other personal assistance may be relied upon for the actual writing. The work must be your own. With respect to grading, I will give credit to well-organized, well-written, and well-reasoned papers. The paper should deal with material critically and thoughtfully. What works best for each individual varies, but many students find the following methods to be useful: stating a thesis and defending it against the best counter-arguments, writing an outline and then following it, or writing and organizing notes on index cards or otherwise before starting to compose. An unerring rule of good writing is to rewrite. Be self-critical in assessing your own writing and be sure to give yourself enough time to revise and edit. Deadlines will be strictly enforced with penalties assessed for lateness (except for emergencies). Emergencies include death in the family or other serious situations (approved, if possible, in advance).
VI. CLASSROOM EXPECTATIONS

- We will start and end class on time.
- You must display your name tent.
- You must turn off all phones, laptops and other electronic devices.
- No food during class.
- Drinks in reusable containers are permitted.

IX. INSTRUCTOR BIO

Sarah E. Light is an Assistant Professor of Legal Studies and Business Ethics at the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania, where she teaches Environmental Management, Law and Policy. Light earned her A.B. in Social Studies from Harvard College, where she graduated magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, and was awarded the John Harvard Scholarship and Elizabeth Cary Agassiz Scholarship for highest academic achievement. Professor Light subsequently earned an M. Phil in Politics from Oxford University where she was a Rhodes Scholar. Light earned her J.D. from Yale Law School. Professor Light served for ten years as an Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, Civil Division, and for four of those years as the Chief of the Office’s Environmental Protection Unit. In that capacity, Light represented the United States and its agencies in affirmative, defensive, and bankruptcy litigation and settlement negotiations.

Professor Light has previously taught Sustainability Management, Law and Policy at the Earth Institute at Columbia University, and Environmental Dispute Resolution as a Visiting Assistant Professor at Brooklyn Law School.
