First Note: Two guest speaker panels will meet on two days this quarter from 4:30-5:30 p.m. in an alternative location instead of at the normal class time/in the normal class location (Wed. Feb. 5 and Mon. Feb 24). Brief post-event reflections will be due within 24 hours of attending each event via Canvas in order to confirm your attendance. If you cannot attend one or both of these sessions due to an academic time conflict (i.e., exam, class), you can watch the video recording of the event as a make-up. Please contact me to let me know about your academic conflict. The video will be made available to approximately 1 week after the event and you will have 24 hours from the time it is released to you to write a brief post-event reflection that will count for your attendance.

Second Note: In this course, I take a broad-based approach to examining diversity and inclusion in the context of work and organizations. To that end, it is a "survey" course and it is not intended to focus on or explore in-depth any one aspect of diversity or inclusion. In this course, we examine diversity and inclusion from many lenses and perspectives, including organization, leader, team, and personal lenses and equity/fairness, innovation, and learning perspectives.

INDIVIDUAL MEETINGS AND GROUP MENTORING LUNCHES

- Individual Meetings: You can schedule a 15 minute appointment with me via TimeTrade: <https://my.timetrade.com/book/R7MQS>
- Group Mentoring Lunches: I will be scheduling mentoring lunches with small groups of 3-7 MBA and undergraduate students on Mondays and Wednesdays throughout the quarter. Please sign-up via Canvas.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

People in the workplace are constantly interacting with peers, managers, and customers with very different backgrounds and experiences. When harnessed effectively, these differences can be the catalyst for creative breakthroughs and the pathway to team and organizational learning and effectiveness; but when misunderstood, these differences can challenge employees' values, performance, workplace relationships, and team effectiveness. This course is designed to help students navigate diverse settings more effectively and improve their ability to work within and lead diverse teams and global organizations. It also offers students the opportunity to develop their critical thinking on topics such as identity, relationships across difference and bias, and equality of opportunity in organizations around the world and how they relate to organizational issues of equality of opportunity, inclusion, and effectiveness. Class sessions will be experiential and discussion-based. Readings, self-reflection, guest lectures, case studies, and a final individual or team project will also be emphasized. By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- 1) Describe current perspectives on the relationships among diversity and inclusion in global organizations
- 2) Evaluate the aspects of your identity and personal experiences that shape how you interact and engage with others and how they interact and engage with you in organizations
- 3) Explain how issues of privilege and bias influence opportunity and effectiveness in global organizations
- 4) Propose ways to make relationships across differences in organizations more effective
- 5) Analyze a company's current approach to leading diversity and use content from this course to propose ways to enhance learning and effectiveness in that company
